Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 08 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Rain and snow moving south first thing. Brighter later. Cold.

Today:
Outbreaks of rain, sleet and snow moving south across the region during the morning. Snow settling to some low levels. Risk of some icy stretches forming in places. It will become drier and brighter into the afternoon. Feeling rather cold. Maximum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Tonight:
Mostly dry with lengthy clear skies, especially inland overnight. A widespread frost with the risk of icy stretches forming. A few light showers are likely along the east coast. Minimum temperature -3 deg C (27 deg F).

Saturday:
After a cold and frosty start, it will be mostly fine and dry, with good spells of sunshine. Clouding over from the north later in the day. Feeling rather cold. Maximum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Cloudier and breezier on Sunday with some rain and drizzle. Less cold. Further rain and strong winds moving south Monday, perhaps some hill snow later. Drier and brighter on Tuesday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.